Bunny

If animals could talk, what would they say?

I went to the pet shop to buy a pet. Right away, I spotted the perfect pet for me. A little white baby bunny. I named her Snowalina because she was all white and because she looked like a princess. One day, one of my friends came to my house and said "Please take care of my black baby bunny named Hyper." I said yes because I loved bunnies a lot. When Snowalina and Hyper met it felt like Snowalina was saying "Hello, nice to meet you." Then it looked as if Hyper was saying "I hope we are going to have a fun day today." Because my friend was going to Paris for 2 days. After Snowalina and Hyper were done talking, they went to their food bowl and water bowl as if they were saying "I'm hungry!" and "I'm thirsty!" So I went to the fridge to get some lettuce and water. After the bunnies ate and drank they both looked at me again but had their ears perked down. I thought about what they were trying to say. I thought they needed to go outside and I think they were saying "I need to go out in the yard really badly!" So I quickly let them go outside before they do it on the floor. Both of the bunnies looked at me. I think they were trying to say "I need some privacy please!" So I looked away. After they went, I let them back inside before it rains and gets cold. After they went inside they jumped on my bed and looked at me for the very last time. I thought about what else they needed. An idea popped in my head. I think they were trying to say" I want to hear a song before I go to sleep!" So I did sing them a song. I sang them 3 songs before they went to sleep. The next morning came. I was so surprised! When I woke up Hyper and Snowalina were already adults! But thats not all! Snowalina had 12 newborn babies! They were all soft, warm and cute! When my friend came back from Paris, she was so surprised, she even let me have Hyper! I felt as if Snowalina and Hyper were saying "We are glad to have a wonderful owner.
