Today, animals shelters are good, but in 2060, they are going to be better.

First of all, in 2060, new things are going to be invented. Pets are going to be in a better shape and don't have to be in the streets rolling around. In the animal rescue, the creatures are going to be showered every four days, and also many people are going to donate things for the animals.

Other creatures may have a strange disease and you might get infected, but by 2060, there's going to be a machine called "Unhappy the Animal." It would go into that machine and would distract the creature while the vet would get the results. The vet is going to check the creature once a week. There's going to be 300 animals at an animal shelter, and they will be split into groups. Some animals might be hurt, but the "Makenewnation" will make a leg, arm, or tail. The animals are going to be very happy to be able to walk again.

If some of the creatures are sick or always barking, they will go to the Checkmex. The Checkmex would tell the vet if there's something wrong with the animal. It also gives a massage to their back, and the dogs will like it. There's also going to be something called the Brush Pet. The Brush Pet will brush the animals and also cut their nails, brush their teeth, and clean other body parts. The workers are not going to clean the cages because there's going to be a machine called Express Cleaner. It will pick up the mess that the animals and their toys make.

If you want to help in the animal shelters, you can ask the people that have already volunteered. You can help out by taking dogs to walk or play with the cats. You can also ask other people if they want to volunteer to help at the shelter. They will get very familiar with the animals in the animal shelter. The assistants or volunteers can also help in the birthing area. You can help take care of the puppies and kittens, along with other species of animals. If one day the animal shelter is burning down, the dogs are going to run out because helpers are going to help train the animals so they can save themselves. I think people in 2060 are going to make new electronics that will help animals a lot. People and animals alike will be very happy with shelters.
