Have you ever had an animal friend that could detect a dangerous situation? Well, if you want to learn about this, you are in luck! First of all, did you know that dogs can detect danger? There are many types of dogs that can do this and one is the K-9. K-9s can detect bombs, drugs, and criminals and this can be keen in some situations! Many dogs are good at this but in my opinion K-9s are best in addition, dolphins are very intelligent creatures of the deep, they can also do many things for human kind. If a dolphin senses dangerous situation they can swarm you rapidly to warn you to say, "This is a dangerous situation!" Dolphins also click and whistle to communicate with you, they might be trying to say, "Hurry get to safety"! Last but not least the shark. I know what you're thinking a predator protecting people, impossible, well, you are wrong! Sharks cannot make any noise so they use body language to talk to you. Opening their jaws nodding their heads, or arching their body is a signal that they are trying to communicate with you. I really hope you enjoyed my story and would absolutely read it again, over and over.
